I highly recommend these cd's. They have been a life saver. The only thing that I was disappointed about is that these CDs only cover Article 9. There is very little information on Article 3. I like it includes a handout in .pdf format on the 4th cd. The lecturer follows the handout and it saves you from the need of taking too many additional notes. The lecturer has a very conversational style. Highly recommended!

I found this to be really helpful before my secured transactions exam. It simplified the whole subject into a couple hours. It probably would have been good to have in the middle of the semester.

This man transformed me from a low confidence secured transaction exam taker into a confident exam taker. (I'm a believer now). I took notes on his little hand out and listened to him as many times as I could before my exam. Please purchase this, he is worth it. Retaining auditory knowledge is much easier than retaining visual things you read in the book. Spak gives you a hand out to follow, but not everything he says is on it, so just listen to what he says and write it down in the margins. I hated rewinding him over and over to write down what he was saying, but it helped things stick better.

Used for Bar Prep. Excellent study aid that is actually published by Barbri. As a result, it followed along with the Barbri outline to a substantial extent. It does not hit all of the nuances in the outline but it does give a great foundation.

The content of the CD's are good. The overview is a bit cursory and is not really in depth as I would have liked. The biggest problem is that the sound quality is terrible. I have to crank the volume to even be able to hear the discussion. If I am riding the train then forget about it; I can hear nothing. Great if you are sitting at home and listening in a quite space. Terrible if you are a commuter like I am and are trying to listen on the go.
